

Abstract of the Disclosure

In the present invention, a substrate with exposure light from an exposure light source is irradiated before a projection exposure beforehand. A reflectance of this exposure light from the substrate is measured. An appropriate intensity of exposure light for the substrate is determined by referring to the reflectance. Then, a mask pattern is projected onto the substrate by irradiating with exposure light of the determined intensity.

5
10
15
20
25
30
35
40
45
50
55
60
65
70
75
80
85
90
95
100